

LIEUT. TOM MOORMAN.

Popular Citizen of Columbia is Assigned to the Regular Army.

Several days ago the relatives of Lieut. Thos. S. Moorman, Jr., received a congratulatory telegram from a friend in Washington. At the time they suspected what it meant, but would not let the matter be published until the news was confirmed. Yesterday it was authoritatively announced that he had been appointed second lieutenant in the United States regular army.

Lieut. Moorman, who is now in the upper part of the state, has not yet been assigned to a command. His name has been on the waiting list for several months and his appointment would have been issued sooner but for some delay on account of medical examinations. When he had fully recovered his strength after his return from the Philippines, he had no difficulty in standing the medical examination.

Lieut. T. S. Moorman, Jr., is 26 years old. When he graduated from Clemson in 1897 he ranked fourth in a class of 36, and by the United States army officer in command of the cadet corps was reported as distinguished in military tactics. He was by Gov. Ellerbe appointed first lieutenant of Company L of the Second South Carolina regiment, and served as such during the Cuban campaign. By President McKinley he was appointed second lieutenant in the United States volunteer army and was assigned to the Twenty-ninth regiment, which served in the Philippine campaign; was promoted to a first lieutenant, and was placed in command of a campaign for eight months, although he did not rank as a captain. While in the Philippines he was twice assigned to important posts.

This regiment was mustered out last May. Upon his subsequent applying for a place in the regular organization, Lieut. Moorman was readily designated for appointment and was ordered up for examination. The endorsements of his character and of his competency were strong and genuine and showed the confidence of his superior officers. His friends know of the cool courage behind his placid disposition, and if there is ever any fighting for the army, they look for Lieut. Moorman's promotion. The Columbia State.

Free From Lynchings.

Spartanburg county boasts of being one county in the South that does not indulge in lynchings. For a hundred years there has been no lynching for the usual crime, and only one for any cause and that was a white man. No where in the South is there a better feeling between the races. The negroes are made to feel that when they violate the law they will suffer, and courts of justice will accord them all that belongs to them. While Spartanburg juries are proverbial for doing their duty, the record shows that race prejudice does not enter the jury box. While a man who had unlimited means, being president of a cotton factory and owning at least $50,000 in his own right was hanged for murder, during the past six months four negroes have been acquitted by Spartanburg juries of killing white men.—Spartanburg Herald.

Good Roads Suggestion.

Gen. M. C. Butler of Edgefield county is interesting himself actively in the good road movement in this State. He was among the delegates appointed by Governor McSweeney to the convention to meet in Greenville December 19th and 20th.

Gen. Butler recognized the great importance of this progressive movement and has thrown the weight of his personality and influence in its behalf. He is not simply lending it the moral support of his approval, but is actively at work in the cause.

In an interview published in a Georgia paper recently he said that he proposed to advocate the adoption by the next session of the legislature of a bill to make the State railroad commissioners also commissioners of public highways. He says the public roadways are scarcely second in importance to the State's railroads, and the commissioners might have supervision of both. Their time is not fully occupied with the railroads, and they might improve the public roadways of the State by systematizing the country work and establishing a general plan that will encourage permanent improvements, the use of the best material, and the wisest methods of road construction.

This is certainly an important enterprise, and one worthy the best efforts of the State's best men.—Greenville News.

The Charleston Exposition Opens.

From The State.
Charleston, Dec. 1.—The South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian exposition, was opened with religious exercises and a grand sacred concert at the exposition auditorium this afternoon. The Charleston exposition is the first of the great fairs held in this country, to be opened with formal religious exercises and these services were in keeping with the elaborate and interesting character of the great project, undertaken by Charleston, which will be formally launched to-morrow.

An immense crowd attended the services, which were non-denominational in character. All creeds and denominations had a part in the services while the music was largely classic and was rendered by a choir of 100 voices, under the direction of Madam B. H. Barbot, the leading musical directress of Charleston.

There was a general disappointment at the failure of the grand Moller organ to reach here and be erected in time for the concert. The organ was shipped two weeks ago and should have reached here but it has not and the United States Artillery orchestra had to supply the deficiency and the skilled musicians proved equal to the task. The orchestra consequently had a larger share of the work than was at first intended. An interesting number on the programme was the rendition of an ode on the exposition, which had been set to music by Prof. Theodore Saul.

THE LIBERTY BELL.

On Its Way to Charleston it Will Stop at Columbia.

When the Liberty Bell starts its journey to Charleston the southern railway will have the honor of transporting the relic over a great part of the journey, as the plant system will have the greater honor of getting it into the city. The special train will stop at various points in Tennessee and North Carolina, and will go from Asheville to Columbia. From Columbia the bell will be shifted around to Savannah, and from Savannah the Plant system will bring it into Charleston.

When the bell reaches Columbia a stop will be made and the citizens, many of whom have never seen this historic emblem of American patriotism, will have the opportunity of seeing it.

THE SOUTH OF TO-DAY.

Cotton Spindles Quadrupled Since 1890—Other Development.

Richard H. Edmonds, editor of the Manufacturers' Record, the exponent of the industrial and railroad interests of the South, in discussing the advancement of the manufacturing industries of the South, said:

"Taken as a whole the business interests of the entire South are on a sounder basis and making greater progress than ever before. The depression in the cotton goods trade has been about the only weak spot in the situation, but there is now a very distinct tendency to improvement in that line. The growth of the cotton mill interests is seen in an increase from 1,700,000 spindles in 1890 to 6,500,000 spindles at present, this industry now representing a capital of between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 against $61,000,000 in 1890 and $21,000,000 in 1880. But the real advance is greater than figures show, for it is found in part in the greater skill acquired, the finer goods now produced and the foundation thus laid for a great broadening out of this industry. The South now consumes in its own mills over 1,600,000 bales a year, against an average of about 1,800,000 bales in all other mills in the country, the former having quadrupled in the last ten or twelve years, while the latter consumes no more on the average than a decade ago. Southern cotton oil mills now employ a capital of over $50,000,000 and according to the census of 1900 the value of the cotton seed of the South is now about $80,000,000 a year. The cotton crop last year was worth $494,000,000, and if to this be added the 80,000,000 for seed, cotton yielded to Southern farmers in that season $574,000,000. The value of the manufactured products of Southern mills was about $150,000,000, and of Southern oil mills $50,000,000, showing a grand total of about $775,000,000 which cotton and its products yielded to the South during the crop year ended August 21. This was far ahead of any previous year, but it will probably be nearly or quite duplicated this season."

The School Charts.

The State.

The old school chart question is up again. The supreme court is now handling the matter. It will be recalled that Judge Gary decided in Lexington county that the county did not have to pay for the chart. An appeal was taken to the State supreme court, and yesterday the case which was entitled "Loan and Exchange bank of South Carolina, appellant, vs. F. W. Shealy as treasurer, et al., respondent and appellant," was argued by Mr. Allen J. Green for appellant and Mr. C. M. Elford and Mr. W. H. Sharpe for respondent. The decision in the case will be awaited with considerable interest for other cases are pending in many of the counties.—The State.

ALL CASES OF DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in that ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among whom the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would never cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,

Learn Fireworks Christmas.

As Christmas comes on again, with its approach we recall with regret the wrong way we have of celebrating it. Can the teachers not set a ball rolling now to give the Fourth of July the fireworks, the tin pans and the cow bells. (We need a Fourth of July down here, we have it once) while we give the Christmas the birthday the proper keep?

It is only custom that holds us to this erroneous method, and our people have not thought of it. We can do something in the school-room to change the wrong. Elizabeth Hack-ton Taylor. Blackville, S. C., Nov. 25.
